

Bachelor Materials Management

The skills, competencies, attitudes and knowledge necessary for its graduates to administer and manage the supply chain based on making of informed decision will be developed. The program graduates are prepared with the required abilities to perform in a dynamic and participative environment in support of the manufacturing and service industry. The program promotes ethical and moral orientation within the philosophical framework of the University of Puerto Rico at Bayamón and society.